Discover the city with GPS!

This rally is all about Berlin. In contrast to a guided tour of the city participants become active themselves during geocaching! By means of various team tasks Berlin becomes an architectural, social and cultural experience.

Equipped with a road book and writing materials, you are ready to go: You will receive your coordinates that will lead your team to various stations. Tasks that await you may, for example, involve solving a tricky question about Berlin or your current location. You may also be sent on a scavenger hunt to find a hidden clue. Or it could be a creative task that challenges your team's talent. So one thing is for sure: you won't get bored here! Along the rally you can expect many different challenges with varying degrees of difficulty.
