

IP1-B2: Workshop "What do we mean by inter- and transdisciplinary research and how to do it?"

Inter- and transdisciplinary research approaches are becoming more prominent and are increasingly required by funding agencies. Hmm, the latter is something about stakeholders, right? In fact, do we really know what inter- and transdisciplinarity means and how to apply it in our research? This workshop aims to provide researchers with more conceptual clarity and gives illustrative examples from current UFZ projects that aim to work transdisciplinary. Group discussions will address the challenges for transdisciplinary research and generate insights for implementing it.

Primary authors: BECKMANN, Michael; RODE, Julian

Co-author: SPIERING, Salina

Presenters: BECKMANN, Michael; RODE, Julian; SPIERING, Salina; JAHN, Stephanie

Session Classification: Breakout Session